

Coaching for Leaders

Enabling everyday coaching conversations

“I don’t have time to coach!” or “I don’t know how to coach!” are phrases commonly uttered by leaders around the world in response to a growing number of organizations moving to coaching cultures. Many leaders are now required to incorporate coaching into their daily work, and it is a responsibility that many shy away from due to pre-conceived notions of what coaching really is.

Coaching is simply about having engaging conversations and asking powerful questions. Period. You don’t need to be a professional coach to coach effectively and you certainly don’t need to block off a couple of hours every week to coach your employees. This workshop will show you how you can weave coaching into your everyday practices and increase the performance of your team and its individual members.

You will learn:

- What coaching is and why is it critical to your success as a leader.
- The 3 secrets to being a successful coach at work and how to implement them.
- How to use coaching as a powerful tool to create greater engagement, commitment and accountability.
- A model for creating powerful coaching conversations.
- A list of coaching questions and the context in which to use them.
- How to coach in less than 10 minutes.
