

Leadership on the Run

How to achieve better results, faster.

Based on the book Leadership on the Run, this one-day workshop shows you how to improve results by simply making small tweaks that lead to big results. Albert Einstein once said, "The definition of insanity is doing the same thing over and over again and expecting different results". Most leaders push themselves harder and harder to improve results, often with too little time and too few resources. What most don't recognize, however, is what they need to do differently. This workshop introduces you to the key results factors and shows you how to implement them with your team(s).

You will learn:

- ✓ The key results factors.
- ✓ The little things that create big results.
- ✓ How to get people to set their sights higher.
- ✓ Methods for creating synergy that increases performance.
- ✓ How to spark engagement, commitment and initiative.
- ✓ What's required to get people fully on-board.
- ✓ How to generate creative thinking that boosts performance.
- ✓ And more!

Your team can achieve better results with less struggle.
